The Cooperative Enterprise Conference
Friday, June 15, 2007

"A cooperative enterprise is owned and controlled by its members -- the individuals, institutions or businesses that use its services. Co-ops create and retain quality jobs, build community health and stability, and recycle money through the local economy."

Keynote Speaker Howard Brodsky, Co-chairman, co-CEO and co-founder of CCA Global Partners, will talk about how the company's unique cooperative business model enables thousands of independent retailers to compete successfully with large national corporations. CCA Global Partners is a retail innovator with $8 billion in aggregate gross sales, more than 3,000 retail stores and 74 consecutive quarters of profitability.
